

Biography of the director Andreea Bortun

Andreea Bortun is a Romanian writer/director, a graduate of UNATC, Bucharest. She has also studied philosophy, literature and modern art at BARD College Berlin. Andreea has worked on more than 15 short scripts and has been an active contributor for various film and art magazines. She is an alumnus of several prestigious international training programs (Sarajevo Talent Campus, Apulia Film Experience, Midpoint and European Short Pitch) and since 2006 is the co-president of the biggest Theatre Festival for Youth in Romania (Ideo Ideis). She is currently working as a script consultant, as well as developing her first feature script. She has won the special jury mention in the competition of the Robert Bosch Co-Production Prize, for the short project Mr. Moonlight, as well as The Canon Short Film Competition in the frame of Berlinale Talents 2014 for her directorial debut, the short project Love Locker. Starting august 2015 Andreea will begin her MFA at The New School, New York.

Filmography as a director:

Love Locker (to be released 2015)

Blue Spring (currently in post-production)